THE CITY.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Oh, Lud!
The mud
Is soft and plastic:
Designs fantastic
From passing cart
Splash o'er each part
Of clothes,
Our hose
Are simply shocking,
Such dreadful walking
Is only fit for hogs,
For ducks, for geese, for dogs,
Our overshoes!
Them both we've lost.
Oh, Springtime Muse,
In this way dost
The raise our ire
By mud and mire!
The mud—
Oh, Lud!

[The inspiration didn't strike our muse at the right time, but it will come in good place ere long.]

——Revenue receipts yesterday $5,058.60.

——A "chaw" of tobacco is said to be good for the liver.

——A drayman was arrested yesterday for fast driving on the streets. Moving on a right.

——The Governor has appointed J. A. Bonitz of Goldeboro, a Commissioner of the colored Insane Asylum.

——The fire cistern near Person street church is nearly finished. When completed it will hold 30,000 gallons of water.

——The yard in the rear of the post office is being handsomely finished off and it is contemplated to make it a pleasure square.

——The Rev. Sam. M. Smith and his bride arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Yarboro House. They leave for Washington, N. C., this morning.

——The Poindexter trial which is creating so much excitement in Richmond will come up for another hearing in that city to-morrow. So far it has failed of a jury.

——The boy that had his pocket unloaded in the Express office the other day, lost his balance and has been sick at home ever since. There is an aching void in that boys——pocket.

——Col. Olds, the Adjutant Generals efficient aide, on yesterday shipped a full equipment to the Jarvis Light Infantry, Greenville, N. C., and the Anderson Rifles, Enfield, N. C,

——The senior of the firm says their roasted coffee trade is growing, still growing. It is necessary to employ the services of a steam engine to supply the demand. The house has five order carts in active service delivering their goods promptly; the fifth cart is a double team and is used exclusively for the delivery of roasted coffee. Mr Stronach is a truthful man—and we believe him. He knows how to tell a tale about roasted coffee.

——Two handsome brick store houses are in course of erection on Wilmington street, near the corner of Martin. The stores will be eighty feet deep and two stories high besides the basement. Rand & Barbee Bros. are building one which they will occupy as a store, the other is being built by Mr. A. Horne of Clayton and will be for rent. It is expected the work will be completed and the stores ready for occupancy by the 1st of July.

PERSON STREET CHURCH.—The ladies of Person St. Church will give a dime party at the parsonage on Thursday evening. The object is to raise funds with which to complete the furnishing of the parsonage.

A WORD ABOUT DRUMMERS.—Be it understood on the authority of the State Treasurer, that the increase on drummer's license to $100 for tradesmen and $200 for liquor dealers, relieves them from the municipal tax which has heretofore been levied on them in certain localities. Manufacturers under the present law are also required to pay one hundred dollars for the drummer's privilege.

COURT CALENDAR—1879-'80.—R. W. Best, Esq., Reading Clerk of the House of Representatives, has laid on our table, a copy of a calendar of the courts of the State, embracing all the changes made in the different Districts by the last Legislature. It is neatly gotten up, and will be of great service to lawyers and business men generally. As there is no other publication containing the changes recently made, those in need of the Calendar would do well to avail themselves of the opportunity. Mr. Best will mail them to any address on receipt of price, 2 cents.

SEEGER'S BEER.—But few industries in this country have attained such colassal proportions as the brewing of larger beer. Almost every large city has its breweries, and the city of Baltimore can boast of at least a score of them. Probably the largest and best known of these extensive breweries is that of Jacob Seeger, located on the Federick avenue, in the western suburbs of the city of Baltimore. The extensive brewery of Mr. Seeger with all its appurtenances covers an area of four acres of ground. The main building, which includes the hotel, is 300 feet in length and fronting on Pratt street, and three stories in height; in the rear of this are the malt houses, each 300 feet long and containing five stories. Seeger's beer is very popular in this city and commands a large sale throughout the South.

Dunn all of a Sudden.

A STORY LINCKE-D YESTERDAY—A HOT CHASE—OVERTAKEN AT LAST—"HE IS BROUGHT BACK."

A closely contested running match occurred in this city yesterday between officer Lincke and a lightning cut African, which was the sequel to a little story that was begun some time ago in Johnston County. Several months since Mr. Goodwin of Clayton was stabbed by a negro named Albert Dunn. Before his arrest could be made, he succeeded in making his escape, and baffled all efforts to capture him. It appears that he was recognized on the streets yesterday by Mr. Pool the Post Master of Clayton, who put officer Lincke on his track, and he proceeded at once to his arrest.

Dunn is a stalwart darkey, six feet tall, slender and supple. As if by instinct he became aware of the officers intentions and modestly gave way to his advances, but finding his manner too aggressive, he gradually widened the distance between them. The officer followed in close pursuit and soon gained on the receding darky—who took his course along Martin street towards the Penitentiary. The negro had freedom at stake, the officer his prowess. Away they sped, but the dusky strider could not keep pace with the well trained policeman and he was finally run down in the railroad cut this side of the Penitentiary. Here he assumed another role and offered stout resistence to the officers overtures and was only brought to amicable relationship by a most vigorous application of the persuasive "billy." Back to the city the officer strode, his trophy in charge, and straight to the inner vault of the stony walls of the City Hall he led his precious treasure—and here our story ends.

NO LANDSLIDE AT ALL.—The report that reached the ears af a News reporter on Monday that a landslide in "mudcut" had covered up a portion of the construction train as it passed through this now famous spot, appears to have been unfounded, as will be seen from the following telegram to the Governor last night.

HENRY, N. C. March 18.

GOVERNOR JARVIS.—Not a word of truth in the report. Cars are running through "mudcut," and Moore's cut a mile beyond and will be at Swannanoa gap in ten days. JAS. W. WILSON.

PERSONALS.—Mr. J. S. Carr, of the great tobacco firm, was in the city yesterday en route for Washington city.

Col. Fred. A. Olds has accepted a position as special city agent for Messrs Cameron, Hay & Co., and the N. C. State Life Insurance Co. He is a young gentleman of pleasing address, popular manners and possessed of all the qualities that go to make up a successful insurance agent. He is thorough in all his work, active and energetic in the discharge of his duty and will prove a success in his present capacity.

Rev. A. R. Raven, of Weldon, a prominent member of the N. C. Conference, M. E. Church, South, and editor of the Missionary Herald is on a visit to this city where he has many friends and admirers.

THE SOUTHERN STUDENTS' HAND-BOOK.—This contribution to our School Literature differs from all the so called "Southern Speakers" heretofore printed, in this:—that its matter is exclusively of Southern origin. But it makes no attempt at a complete survey of Southern oratory and literature, its chief aim being to represent, as fully as circumstances permit, the "New South" in oratory, dialectic, poetry and general literature, and omitting the hackneyed pieces which for more than half a century have done duty in all the Readers and Speakers in the land, as representative of the "Old South," thus presenting to our Schools a fresh and interesting compilation, illustrative of Southern life, sentiment and thought in their best phases, during the exciting period through which the States have recently passed. Digest of Opinions of the Supreme Court, January Term, 1879.

Reported specially for the News.

SMITH, C. J:

Jones vs. Jones, from Wake. Venire de novo.

Where it was material to fix the time at which a witness went to live with the plaintiff, and he swore in his cross examination that it was in May, and defendant to contradict him offered his affidavit made at a previous stage of the action, in which he swore that he went to live with plaintiff in March. Held, that it was proper for the Court to admit the affidavit. It is only when a matter, the details of which are extracted in cross-examination, is collateral merely, that the answer of the witness is conclusive and no proof to the contrary is allowed. Where, also, the plaintiff, to corroborate his witnesses who were impeached by defendant, offered affidavits previously made by them and containing statements concurrent with their testimony on the trial, Held, that the affidavits were properly received. Their admissibility rests upon the obvious principle that as conflicting statements impair, so also uniform and consistent statements sustain and strengthen the credit of a witness before the jury.

SMITH, C. J:

State vs. Lane, from Mecklenburg. Affirmed.

Where, in an indictment for forgery the forged name was misspelt and it was also proved that the defendant could not write, but had possession of the order and received goods thereon, Held, that the misspelling of the name would not prevent a conviction, it being idem sonans; nor would the fact that defendant could not write prevent conviction, since he caused the order to be written and had it in his possession.

SMITH, C. J:

Williams, Black & Co, vs. Carr, administrator from Edgecombe. Affirmed.

Held, That money advanced by a cotton-broker to cover losses sustained by speculations in cotton futures can be recovered out of the party for whom he advanced the money, and that where the form of the contract for future delivery has nothing inherent in it to show that no real delivery was intended it cannot be held to be void as against public policy as a wager or bet.

SMITH, C. J:

Paschall, adm'r vs. Bullock, from Granville. Affirmed.

Held, Defences must be brought forward in apt time. Where the defendant, who had been discharged in bankruptcy, failed to plead his discharge until an execution had been issued and then made a motion to recall it and set it aside, it was too late and should not be heard.

ASHE, J:

York vs. Merritt, from Chatham. Affirmed.

Where the plaintiff, as attorney for defendant, agreed to obtain his discharge in bankruptcy for $100, $50 as fee and $50 as costs, and defendant made plaintiff a deed for a tract of land absolute on its face but intended as a security for the fee and advancement, and both parties intended by the arrangement to prevent the creditors of the bankrupt from getting the land. Held, that in a suit for recovery of the land the plaintiff is entitled to recover, and the parties being "in pari delicto" this Court cannot interfere to give relief to the defendant.

ASHE, J:

Thomas vs. Simpson, from Guilford. Affirmed.

Held, Where one undertakes to employ his labor and skill in making articles for a specific purpose, there is an implied warranty arising out of the contract that they should be fit and proper for the purpose for which they were made.

BY ASHE, J:

State vs. Bowman, from Randolph, no error.

Held. A juror, who has conscientious scuples against capital punishment, no matter how much disposed to discharge his duty, would be an unsafe juror, because he would be materially influenced by his prejudices. Held also. That it is not necessary to give the prisoner notice of the disinterment of the body of the deceased and the examination to detect presence of poison.

BY DILLARD, J:

State vs. Baldwin, from Macon. Affirmed.

Where, in an indictment of a jailor for escape of prisoners, found at Fall Term 1877, continued at Spring Term 1878 and called for trial at Fall Term 1878, the defendant moved to quash the bill on account of disqualification of four of the grand jurors who found the bill, Held, that the objection came too late and it was proper in the judge to disregard the excuse given for the delay, and supported by nothing but statement of counsel, that the defendant had been misled at the second term and prevented from making the motion by a proposition of the solicitor to send a new bill. Where, also, in making up the jury the Solicitor challenged a juror on the ground of his relationship with the escaped prisoners, Held, it was proper to sustain the challenge and reject the juror, for it was reasonable to presume that such relationship would or might affect the indifference of the juror between the defendant and the State. Held, also, that the indictment which averred that "A and B charged with murder of one C. were duly committed to the care and custody of Baldwin" sufficiently indicated that the commitment was to the defendant as jailor, upon a specific charge of murder and by authority of the Superior Court at Term.

BY DILLARD, J.

Runyon et. al vs. Ramsay; from Madison. Affirmed.

Where, in a suit for an account to be taken and the defendants to be declared trustees for plaintiffs on the allegation that plaintiffs and defendants had agreed by parol to buy land jointly and to share in the expense of improvements thereon and the defendants had taken title to themselves alone, and denied the alleged agrement and that plaintiffs had paid anything and a decree was made at Fall Term 1876 without finding how much, if anything had been paid by plaintiffs, or with what intent. Held, that said decree was a preliminary decree and it was competent and proper in the court on a petition by defendants to rehear the same, to set it aside and reopen the case for the determination of those essential matters.

BY DILLARD, J.

Rhodes vs. Lewis, from Gaston. Affirmed.

Held. In the construction of statutes the courts should ascertain and effectuate the intent of the Legislature, as far as it can be done within the fair meaning of the words used, interpreted with reference to the subject matter and policy of the enactment, and to this end it is a settled rule to examine and compare different parts of the same statute and with other statutes made in pari materia. If, therefore, Section 1 of Article 7 of the Constitution is taken and considered with Chapter 141 and 275 Acts 1876-'77, there can be no reasonable doubt of the intention that Register of Deeds was to be elected with the other county officers on Tuesday after 1st Monday in November, 1878.

BY DILLARD, J.

Reeves vs. Davis, Adm'r., from Madison. Affirmed.

Held. A justice's court is not a court of record, and its judgments may be admitted in evidence on proof of the hand-writing of the justice, his being in office at the time, and of the rendition of the same within his county. Held, That a justice cannot delegate to another to hear an action and to pronounce the sentence of the law on the facts, but if he tries the case and makes his own conclusions of law, he may have the same reduced to writing, and his name signed by another under his personal supervision and direction. Held, The justice ought to pronounce his judgment on day of trial, but in difficult cases it is not unusual for him to reserve his judgment for deliberation, and afterwards to enter it and give the parties notice of his action.

Doran Explains.

Col Doran in his paper on the subject of his difficulty with L. P. Cunningham, says:

'Friday, February 6th, while stopping at the same hotel with Cunningham, in Neosho, I received a message from him asking to see me in his room. Unarmed and utterly unsuspecting, I walked into his room, spoke to him and sat down. In a moment I found a cocked revolver at my head, with a demand that I should sign a paper instantly, or have my brains blown out. One glance satisfied me that it would be impossible to knock the pistol from his hand, and that he meant assassination, for which I gave him credit for just sufficient courage. He had 'got the drop' on me completely; so I simply said: 'Certainly, under the circumstances, I think I would sign almost anything;' and signed it without knowing or caring what it was, just as I would sign a note for fifty thousand dollars, or surrender my purse to a highwayman, under similar circumstances. It was my first experience of the kind, and I am free to admit that there is a powerfully persuasive influence on an unarmed man in a cocked six-shooter, at eighteen inches range, even in the hands of the most cowardly assassin.

The Buffalo Lithia Water.

These celebrated lithia waters have grown into such general use as an unfailing remedy in cases of dyspepsia, headache, kindney complaints of all kinds, etc., that there is not a first class drug store in the land that is not compelled to keep it to supply the constantly increasing demand. For the Third Time.

A HARMONIOUS GATHERING AND AN EXCITING CONTEST—HOW RANDALL CARRIED OFF THE PRIZE.

Washington Post.

The speakership agony is over, and Mr. Randall is, for the third time, declared the choice of his party. The general interest in the contest that has kept Washington alive for a week past seemed to increase as the time of selection drew near, and early last evening people began to file into the Capitol from every direction. Anticipating a heavy pressure from outsiders, Mr Clymer, chairman of the caucus gave directions to the doorkeeper to barricade the corridors, guard the stairway leading to the House. Visitors were permitted to enter the lower floor as they pleased, but their progress up stairs was stopped at every turn by guards, who said they had orders to pass nobody except members.

The lower corridors were jammed, and many schemes were resorted to in order to reach the fl or above. New members; as a general thing, were unknown to the guards, and in some instances they were not allowed to pass until identified. On the other hand, men frequenly got to the corridors above by passing themselves off as members. This ruse was played for some time, and after about a hundred outsiders had succeeded in getting through, the guards smelled a mouse and stopped it. Mr. Blackburn's headquarters were established in the Ways and Means committee room, while Mr. Randall held forth in the room of the Committee on Appropriations. Each of the candidates was surrounded by a number of personal friends, and, of course, all news from inside the House was eagerly sought after. Whenever a member ventured outside he was besieged on every hand, not only by reporters, but by scores of men who felt a deep personal interest in the result. The outsiders managed to keep advised of each step of the caucus, and when it was announced that the balloting hadcommenced the crowd pressed a little nearer to the doors of the lobby, eager to hear the first statement of the count. Finally a shout was heard in the hall, and that was a signal for a general rush. A member emerged from the House, and fifty voices inquired, "What is it?"

"Seventy-five votes for Randall," and the excited member pressed on. Voice after voice repeated the vote, and in ten seconds it reached the ear of Mr. Blackburn, who was standing near the door of his headquarters. "Let me pass," he said, as he rapidly forced his way to the hall of the House, reaching there almost before the cheering of the Randall men had ceased. He was immediately recognized by the chair, and in a moment everything became quiet. In a calm and firm voice he moved to make the nomination of Mr. Randall unanimous, and this was done amid loud cheers. Mr. Blackburn was at once called on for a speech by every member present, and at once took the speaker's stand amid continued cheering. He said:

A NEW HYMN BOOK.—We have examined the Hymn-Book recently issued, entitled "Calvary Selection of Spiritual Songs," and are pleased with the refreshing variety of hymns, and the carefully studied adaptation of the same to the tunes. It meeets a long-felt want in the churches, viz., a book that shall be equally good for choir use or congregational praise. The general appearance of the book is neat, the music distinctly printed, and the arrangement of hymns and subject of hymns unusually fine, quite out of the ordinary routine. HUSSEY & JORDAN, Prop's.

JOHN B. HUSSEY, - Editor.

It seems to be understood in diplomatic circles that England has decided that it doesn't pay to bully Russia, and is going to try coaxing. It was to inaugurate this policy that so uncompromising a Liberal as Lord Dufferin was sent to St. Petersburg.

Now that the great international walking match is over, the country will slowly settle down to business, suspended industries will be gradually resumed, trade will show signs of revival and there will be pulsations of new life in all the arteries of commerce.

It is generally conceded at Washington that the next census reports will show the Northwest to have outstripped all other sections of the country in growth and population, and that Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Colorado will rather take the lead.

The St. Nicholas announcements for April include so many articles by well-known writers for children that the issue can hardly fail to prove a very lively an attractive one. Thomas Hughes, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge, Susan Coolidge, Frank R. Stockton, Lucy Larcom, Harriett Prescott Spofford, Horace F. Scudder, and Olive Thorne are all named in the list of contributors to this single number.

The necessary directions for the issue and sale of the new treasury certificates for $10.00 each, and bearing 4 per cent interest, which were authorized by an act passed during the last session, have been issued in a circular by the Secretary of the Treasury. For the present, only coupon certificates will be issued. Arrangements will soon be made, however, for the issue of such, certificates in registered form, with the name of the owner inscribed upon them.

The excitement in Columbus, Ohio, over the ravages of house burners must be intense when the local editor heads off his leading article with an outburst like this: "If our Heavenly Father was to detail a special delegation of angels to come down and hover over Columbus and protect it from the torch of the incendiary, there are persons who would write a card to the press, finding fault, in some way or other, with the celestial guard."

Mr Langston, Minister to Hayti, informs the Department of State that so exorbitant are the port charges of Hayti on foreign vessels that some American vessels have hoisted the Haytian flag, after some process of naturalization. The port charges are one hundred and fifty-six dollars a ton, four hundred and fifty dollars on a vessel of three hundred tons. The form of naturalization costs four hundred dollars. Mr. Langston raises the question whether the charges are in accord with the treaty of 1864.

Under the resumption act no national bank can issue notes of a denomination less than $5. All ones and twos of such notes sent to the Treasury for redemption and national banks are not reissued, but are destroyed. The amount so destroyed since January 1st has been about $250,000, which means so many ones and twos of national banks withdrawn from circulation. This is not a contraction of the currency, nor does it mean a smaller amount of one and two dollar notes in circulation; for the banks can secure as many ones and twos of U. S. notes as they desire, while they are not allowed to issue any themselves.

The most successful American ever making his home in England since the days of Lord Lynton, who was a Massachusetts man, is Judah P. Benjamin. He was extradited from this country and established firmly in law practice in London. His income—the interest of his brain—is now $150,000 a year. He could be appointed to a judgeship, but with his Israelite eye to business, declines the same because it pays but five thousand pounds.

Benjamin lives in splendid style in London and in Paris, and is exceedingly popular. He is emphatically a self-made man, rising from an unknown office-boy in New Orleans to national distinction in this country, and now to a world-wide reputation.

A law has been introduced in the Illinois Legislature for the protection of bank depositors, which provides, among other things, that a bank officer receiving a deposit and knowing the bank to be insolvent and on the verge of supension at the time, shall be guilty of fraud, and fined double the amount of the deposit or imprisoned in the penitentiary. It also proposes to forbid the loaning of deposits or trust funds by a savings bank to its officers without the consent of depositors, and in a general way aims at making it a crime, punishable the same as any other form of theft, for bank officers to take what does not belong to them.

The immediate effect, however, as every one sees, will be a contraction of the legal tender circulation. The greenbacks paid into the Treasury in exchange for the new certificates will accumulate there, possibly to a large amount, while the new certificates may be used as currency. It is more probable that, like the compound interest notes and other interest-bearing obligations issued years ago by the government, they will have but a qualified or limited use in circulation. The effect will obviously be to diminish the supply of unemployed funds lying idle in banks and other institutions of deposit.

We call the attention of our readers to the superior merits of the Savannah Weekly News. Mr. Estill, the publisher, is still adding to its attractions and enlarging the sphere of its usefulness, until now, both in literary merit and as a complete family newspaper, it stands in the front rank with the best weekly publications in the United States and is in truth an honor to Southern journalism.

She is now in Baltimore, and it is understood that she will propose a general subscription among the Catholics of the country for the relief of the unfortunate archdiocese. Among the contents of the April Scribner will be illustrated papers on "Actors and Actresses of New York," "John Ericsson" (a sketch of remarkable interest and freshness), "Henry Bergh and his work," "H. M. S. Pinafore Amateurs," "The Stickeen River and its Glaciers," "The Measure of a Man" (by William Page,) and "In a Snailery," and other papers on "Tendency of Modern Thought as seen in Romanism and Rationalism," and "A Journey to a Political Convention," together with stories, poetry, and full and varied departments, and an Index of Volume XVII. As there are two volumes to the year, Scribner is now eight and a half years old.

Samuel J. Randall, was nominated Speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives by the Democratic caucus Monday night. He received an academic education, and before he became a politician he was engaged in mercantile pursuits. He has been a member of the House of Representatives for the past sixteen years, being first elected to the Thirty-eighth Congress, and holding his seat ever since. His district (the Third) is composed of the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eleventh, Twelfth, and Sixteenth Wards of the City of Philadelphia. He is man of medium height, brown hair bespangled with gray, a little bald, wears glasses, and altogether presents a fine personal appearance.

A new method of lighting signal buoys, to be placed on dangerous shoals on the seacost, has been invented in New York. The buoy is filled with a gas made from fat or refuse petroleum, and carries a six months' supply compressed. This gas only escapes as it is burned in a lantern, which is made strong enough to resist the action of the winds and waves. The light given by this gas is very strong, and can be seen a distance of four miles. The New York Pilot Commissioners think well of the invention, and will probably recommend its trial at some important point. Should it succeed, the difficult problem of keeping up lights at dangerous points on the coast will be solved, and no more human lives be sacrificed in that hazardous service.

The offices in the gift of the United States Senate are uncommonly fat places. No less than twenty-seven are worth upwards of $2,000 a year, and as the Senate is rarely in session more than five months out of the twelve; and, further, as the duties in no case are very arduous, the incumbents are plainly fortunate persons. Altogether, the Senate has nearly a hundred offices in its gift, all but a dozen of which entitle the holder to draw from $1,000 to $6,000 from the United States Treasury yearly. It is a remarkable fact that none of these lucrative positions are allowed to go begging for applicants to fill them. The indications are that the Democratic Senate will not have offices enough to go round.

The veto power, as it exists in the Federal constitution, was taken from the constitution of Massachusetts. According to Alexander Hamilton, "the primary inducement in conferring the power in question upon the Executive is to enable him to defend himself." Neither Mr. Hayes nor any of his advisers will pretend that the repeal of partisan laws on which the Democrats insist is a menance, or an insult on the Executive power. Another object was to prevent hasty, impulsive, ill-considered legislation. The repealing acts which a Democratic Congress will soon lay before Mr. Hayes have been as maturely considered and as exhaustively discussed as any measures ever brought before Congress. They were decreed by the election of the forty-fourth Congress four and a half years ago, and that decree was repeated in the election of the forty-fifth, and again in the election of the forty-sixth Congress. Nothing sudden, nothing emotional, no transient ebullition of passion in this, but the calm, settled, persistent demand of the people that their will shall take the place of statutes to which they object. Mr. Hayes is an old Whig. Mr. Evarts, Mr. Devens and Mr. Thompson were nurtured in the same faith. They should respect the teaching of Hamilton and Webster. And if they will study the question of the veto power as expounded by those masters, they will admit that the repealing acts proposed furnish no excuse for the employment of the veto power. The legislative department does not propose any aggression in the executive or judicial departments. It proposes nothing impulsive. It simply intends to wipe out laws that experience has condemned, and whose repeal is demanded by the thrice-repeated verdict of a majority of the legal voters of the United States.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The Prospect More Cheering.

THE BOTTOM IS REACHED—THE FACTS AND FIGURES SET FORTH—ANOTHER YEAR, ANOTHER CROP AND THEN AN ERA OF PROSPERITY.

Views of Col. Wm. Johnston.

CHARLOTTE, March 17th, 1879.

Your favor asking me to give you my views on "the financial situation of the country and its future prospects" is received and I hasten to briefly reply. Our country is at present in a peculiar condition. Owing to the rapid contraction and forced resumption of specie payment the entire country has passed for the last four years an ordeal hitherto unknown. Nearly all values have diminished, property has shrunk, labor has been depressed, and gloom and despondency have hung like a pall over the land. All industries have suffered except that of the banker and broker who received their discounts. The industrious and enterprising who borrowed capital to create new enterprises generally become the victims of high interest and the shrinkage in price of property. Hundreds of thousands of honest men have in a few years past been made thus to tread the road to bankruptcy. Capital had become turned from these courses and hid itself in secret places. This was the condition of things on Jan. 1st, when resumption took place, and to a great degree still exists. But the indications are brightening and the prospect is decidedly more cheering. There is no doubt but that the bottom has been reached. When contraction ceased and paper and gold came together to be of equal value, it was manifest that the crisis had been reached and that the down grade of depression and ruin was about to terminate. The country is now at the bottom in a transitive state and as soon as confidence is restored, will commence to assume a renewed prosperity. It is now on a rigid economy, which will greatly help the revival of prosperity. Confidence in finance is a plant of slow growth, give it time, it is gradually coming. Resumption of specie payment is a success. With a balance of $300,000,000 of gold or its equivalent in favor of our country in its foreign trade it could not be otherwise. But few want specie, the miser cannot now hoard it with any profit. The farmer, merchant and mechanic prefer the greenbacks because it will purchase as much property, pay as much debt and is more convenient to handle. The importer alone requires specie and the supply is more than ample for him. Again, we are rapidly gaining specie from foreign countries owing to the large excess of our exports over our imports. This balance of trade in our favor has to be paid in specie or United States bonds. The European stock of bonds is said to be nearly exhausted, more than three-fourths of them having been repurchased in this country. Then we may expect our foreign trade to yield us annually large amounts of gold. Again, the gold and silver mined annually in this country amounts to about $75,000,000, and is increasing. You will recollect that the price of property in any country is governed or regulated by the amount of the circulating medium. On the 31st of December last, the currency in circulation in the United States, consisting of legal tenders, bank notes and fractional currency was less than $700,000,000. On the 1st of January, the day after, when resumption took place nearly $300,000,000 of gold and silver were added to this amount, making the circulating medium nearly $1,000,000,000. Of this gold and silver there were nearly $150,000,000 in the U. S. treasury, over $50,000,000 held by the banks; and hoarded or hid in boxes, trunks, safes, banks, &c. The amount is estimated to be at least one hundred millions. These sums in the treasury, banks and hoarded amounting to nearly $300,000,000, or 40 per centum additional to the then currency, was not in circulation until resumption or until paper became as good as gold. That in the treasury was locked up for resumption and that held otherwise was used as an article of merchandise. It commanded a premium and was bought and sold as a horse or cow or any other merchantable commodity. Now it is no better than paper money and will from necessity perform its functions as currency in the commerce of the nation. It can be used in no other way except by a few ignorant misers who may hoard. Thus we see the nation has more currency to-day than it has had for years past. This fact with the large amounts of gold and silver being mined, and imported to pay the balance of trade, has already had a sensible effect in making money easier and reducing the rates of interest on loans. Further evidence of the easy money market is in the large sales of government bonds at less rates of interest, and of an advance of bonds and stocks generally, over the entire country. The federal government has authorized the issue of treasury certificates of small denominations, bearing low interest, as well as the State of Georgia, which will be used as currency though not intended for that purpose. Other states may do likewise. The great want of the country now is confidence, which will gradually be restored, but requires time. It is based on the fidelity and integrity of contracts between man and man. Another year, with another crop, it is believed will do much to restore confidence, add to the volume of currency, and increase the value of personal and real estate—so long and sadly depressed. Indeed the signs of the times indicate that there is opening to the country an era of prosperity such as it has not enjoyed in sixteen years.

Very respectfully,

WM. JOHNSTON.

The Pistol at Work.

ALL ABOUT THE COX-ALSTON SHOOTING AFFAIR.

A fatal encounter took place in the Treasurer's office of the Capitol to-day between Mr. Edward Cox and Colonel Robert A. Alston, in which Colonel Alston was mortally wounded and Mr. Cox severely, if not fatally. Colonel Alston was one of the most prominent men in Georgia and well known throughout the country, especially in Washington. He came of the fighting Alstons, of Carolina, a family of duelists, every one of whom died with his boots on. The difficulty was as follows:—Mr. Cox and General Gordon are partners in the lease of the convicts of Georgia, but Gordon was very anxious to get out of the partnership and sent Alston to Atlanta with authority to dispose of his interest to any one that would take it. Cox, who is a pestering, bullying man, with a dangerous temper, met Alston here and insisted on his selling Gordon's interest to J. W. Walters, who had agreed to take Cox's if he could get Gordon's. Colonel Alston said that he could serve General Gordon better by selling to Mr. Charles Howard. Cox then got enraged and told Alston if he did not sell as he directed he would kill him. Alston, who, although a very brave man, has always had a horror of dying a violent death, as had all his ancestors, drew away and left. Cox followed him, and finally drew a knife on him, telling him he would kill him if he did not trade with Walters. Alston said:—"I am unarmed; you would not kill a defenceless man." Cox told him to go and arm himself. Alston went to the Capitol, where the Treasurer persuaded him to stay. The Governor came in, and asked Alston to step into the Treasurer's office and stay there while he would send for Cox.

Alston says:—"I know him well, gentlemen, and I ought to take a shot gun and kill him, else he will kill me. As Alston went into the Treasurer's office Cox came down a side corridor. He looked in the Governor's office as he passed, and seeing a man who resembled Alston sitting there drew his pistol. He saw Alston just then entering the Treasurer's office, and followed him. They began the controversy again, Cox telling Alston that he had treated him wrong and had to answer for it. Alston got up, and putting his hand gently upon Cox, said to him:

"Mr. Cox, I do not want to have any difficulty with you about this matter, matter, and there is no need for it. Let us drop it now. It will do you no good to kill me, and do me no good to kill you—not a bit in the world."

Cox replied in an abusive manner and continued to denounce Alston and to urge him on to the affray. It was thought his object was to goad Alston to make the first attack. At the time only Treasurer Renfroe and the tax-collector of Gilmer county were in the office, Capt. Nelms coming in soon after. While the quarrel was in progress the Gilmer gentleman remarked that Cox was abusing Alston beyond endurance and that Alston ought not to let a man talk to him in that way, but ought to kill him.

Treasurer Renfroe, fearing the difficulty, told them not to have a fight in his office. Upon this Cox invited Alston outdoors to settle the matter, but Alston declined to go, repeating that he did not want any difficulty. Cox replied that he should have one. Alston said if he could not avoid it he supposed he would. Cox told him he could not get out of it, and Alston asked him if he wanted to begin it right then. Cox said that it was as good a place as any, and that a difficulty was what he had come for. He went to the front door of the room and attempted to shut it. Treasurer Renfroe told him not to shut that door, but Cox paid no attention to him, but seeing that it was hooked back to the wall, he unhooked it and shut it. He then turned and advanced towards Alston, who also rose and stepped forward. Capt. Nelms ran between them and catching each by the shoulders with his hands, but as he did so both men drew their pistols and began to fire at each other with great rapidity. Capt. Nelms fell back upon the table.

Col. Alston, when he arose from his chair, had his coat buttoned across his breast, but he unbuttoned it and drew his pistol from an inner pocket. His was a self-cocking pistol, and this enabled him to get the first shot at Cox, the ball striking Cox on the left side of the upper lip and penetrating the mouth and jaw. Cox then got into the corner and fired at Alston, but missed him and the ball went into the wall behind. Alston then fired twice in succession, his second ball striking Cox in the left hand, fleshy part between the thumb and fore-finger, and the third shot going wild and burying in the plaster wall about a foot from the floor and close to Cox—so close, it appears, as to have gone through the breast portion of his coat as he stooped and leaned sideways to avoid the shot. Cox then rose and fired his second shot, the ball penetrating the right temple of Col. Alston about an inch from and level with the eye. It ranged through the brain and lodged under the scalp at the back of the head on the left lower side. Col. Alston staggered, reeled and fell in the other door, athwart the threshold, bleeding profusely and unconscious upon the instant. Mr. Cox changed position from the corner to the opposite side near the table, but seeing the effect of his shot he did not attempt to shoot again. He was bleeding himself copiously from the wounds in the mouth and in his hand. He said to Treasurer Renfroe: "We are both of us killed!" and then he went into the front room and laid down upon the lounge. The shots had been heard all around and through the building, and men came running to the scene of the tragedy. The spectacle at this juncture beggars description, and sickened all who saw it. The floor of the room was slippery with pools of blood, and yet the faint blue smoke from the pistols was creeping along the ceiling in search of an outlet. One of the men was lying upon the floor at full length, with the blood streaming from that horrible shot in the head, and the other was moaning upon the sofa four or five feet away, with the blood choking him and flowing from his mouth and his hand dripping as though taken from a pool of crimson blood. On the floor were found a pistol-ball and some of the teeth knocked from Mr. Cox's mouth when he was hit. The picture was one that baffled imagination and nothing so vivid in its silent testimony of the desperate affray so fatally closed could be put upon canvass or in printer's ink upon this page.

The wound in Col. Alston's head was at once pronounced mortal; those of Mr. Cox were deemed painful but not serious. Col. Alston was placed in an easy position and restoratives applied, while his wound was sought to be staunched and his head bathed. The affair came on at 3:20 p. m., and for nearly two hours the men were thus tenderly cared for by physicians and friends. Col. Alston became very restless, and urged his way once clear across the room in his struggles. He returned to consciousness once but only for a brief moment or two. Mr. Frank Gordon, son of Senator Gordon, was promptly at his side and in reply to his question Col. Alston once pressed his hand as a sign of recognition and faintly called his name, "Frank." Then with a struggle he said. "I am dying—. Let me see my wife."

THE DEATH OF COLONEL ALSTON

occurred at 6:40 p. m. He was surrounded by his wife, daughter and son, and by numerous friends. He remained unconscious and did not recognize his wife or children. Mrs Alston bore the situation with great fortitude until the moment of the struggle and then the scene of grief and woe was one of unutterable awe. Tears and sobs of sorrow filled the air and followed after the spirit in its flight into the great unknown.

Col. Alston was born in Macon, Ga., on the last day of December, 1832. After emerging from his school days he engaged in mercantile pursuits in Charleston, S. C., and at the age of 24 years married Miss Charlotte MacGill, daughter of a large planter. He began the study of law and was admitted to practice in 1858. He pursued the law until the war came on, when he entered the service and rose to distinction as one of the leading spirits in Morgan's raiders. He was one of the bravest of that brave band, and through a hundred fights recklessly invited death but never received a wound. At the battle of Cynthiana, Ky., it is related that he lost his breakfast by having his biscuit shot from between his teeth.

Col. Alston has often remarked to the writer and to others in the realistic language of the west, that he felt as though he could not be spared to a peaceful death, but that he should some day "die with his boots on!" He said this to Captain E. L. Mercer, one of his most devoted admirers, and when yesterday Capt Mercer looked upon the dying form of his friend he recalled the almost prophetic words. And when the body was carried to a bed chamber the faithful friend followed it and tenderly drew from the feet of Col. Alston the boots in which he stood when he was shot down. He did not want to see that prophecy fulfilled to its letter. Immense crowds hung about the doors begging for news as to his condition as long as he lived, and the whole city is borne down with sorrow.

Cox is in a critical condition and the public indignation is very high against him.

WASHINGTON, March 11, 1879

The murdered man was well known in Washington, where he was a frequent visitor during the seasons of the session of Congress. He was here as recently as last Thursday, spending much of his time in the company of Senator Gordon, with whom he was on terms of close friendship. Indeed, upon receiving the news of Alston's death Senator Gordon, who is ill and confined to his room, was greatly shocked. As soon as he had recovered his composure he telegraphed to his son, Frank Gordon in Atlanta, to assure the widow of Alston that he would be a protector to her and a provider for her children the rest of his life.

ALSTON'S PRESENTIMENT.

It is said of Alston that he had many previous similar difficulties in his life, and that he had a presentiment that he was to die suddenly by the bullet in a personal encounter, as had his father before him. In fact, his family history includes a bloody vendetta. His uncle Augustus Alston, fought a duel in Florida with rifles many years ago and was killed by his adversary, a near-sighted man, named Reed. His father, Willis Alston, met this man Reed in the streets of Columbus, Ga., subsequently, and killed him. Reed's brother now took up the quarrel, and meeting Willis Alston in Texas one day, shot and killed him.

A CITIZEN OF DAVIDSON COUNTY FATALLY SHOT BY A BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Special Dispatch to the Charlotte Observer.

SALISBURY, March 13, 1879.

Robert W. Hayden was killed near Holtsburg, Davidson county, to day by his brother-in-law, M. W. Barber. They had previously been at enmity with each other and for some time past had not been on speaking terms. To-day Barber was passing Hayden's house on horseback when the latter accosted him insultingly. Barber replied and in the course of a heated colloquy which followed, Hayden, who was at this time in the road gave Barber the d—d lie. The latter spit in his face and ordered him to stand aside. Hayden, instead of doing so, advanced and grasped Barber's bridle rein, whereupon Barber drew a revolver and shot him through the head, the wound producing almost instant death.

Barber subsequently surrendered himself to the officers and is now in jail at Lexington.

SHOT BY MASKED RIOTERS.

CINCINNATI, O., March 11, 1879.

On Saturday night a party of fifteen masked men called at the residence of William Moore, brother-in-law of Ben Groom, the cattle king, at Winchester, Ky., and told him that unless he made immediate settlement of his debts he must leave the county. Moore procured a shot gun and fired into the crowd. The latter fired a volley in return, three shots taking effect on Moore's body, inflicting severe wounds. Two men suspected of being implicated in the affair were afterward arrested and placed in jail. Yesterday their confederates overpowered the guard and released them.

ST. LOUIS, March 11, 1879.

THREE PERSONS IN MISSOURI KILLED.

H. H. Vickery, Sheriff of Douglass county, in this State, went on Saturday last with a posse to the house of Shelt Alsope to arrest him. Alsope resisted the process and fired a number of shots at the party, one of which killed the Sheriff. Alsope and his little girl, five years old, were then killed and two other persons wounded by the Sheriff's posse. The killing of the child was, of course, not designed.

Hon. A. M. Waddell.

Fayetteville Gazette.

Our Representative in Congress for eight years, Hon. A. M. Waddell of New Hanover, surrenders his trust as the public servant of the people of this district with the expiration of the present term. In 1870 he led a "Forlorn Hope," as it was then considered to be, against Oliver H. Dockery. This district was considered hopelessly Radical, and Dockery was indeed a great leader in his party—a powerful speaker, a shrewd politician and an unconscionable demagogue. Few of us hoped for success, and thought to stand only in the beach, to be a sort of Curtius of modern times, plunging, with all the panoply of war, into the yawning gulf of defeat. But the keen rapier of the finished orator and cultured scholar was more potent than the sledge-hammar of the redoubtable son of the "Old Wagoner," and with the Ides of November Alfred stood over the postrate form of the Radical Goliah, Oliver. Again and again he has been chosen by the Democracy of the Cape Fear section to represent them in the council halls of the nation in Washington, leading the party to victory by increased majorities with each succeeding election. In 1878 he was defeated by Daniel L. Russell, by default, the Democrats failing to go to the polls. Of this we will now say nothing—long since those who failed him in the last campaign have bitterly regretted their too great security and confidence. North Carolina needs the services of such men as Col. Waddell, and the day is not far distant when he will again be called to the front—if not for Congress, for some other high position.

Mr. Hendricks' Position.

Indianapolis Journal.

We are not authorized to speak for Gov. Hendricks, nor is Montgomery Blair, and when he says that Mr. Hendricks is for the old ticket of Tilden and Hendricks, he does not speak authoritatively. That may be Mr. Hendricks' second choice. It is not fair play, however, for Eastern Democrats to assume to speak by authority and place Mr. Hendricks second on the ticket. Hailing from the only State north of Mason and Dixon's line carried by the Democrats last year, he is entitled to fair play in the canvass.

All About Thurman.

Washington Capital.

Twice he has been chosen senator from Ohio, in fortunate off-years or between ground-swells of Radicalism. Latterly Fate threw in his way one of the grandest opportunities ever vouchsafed a statesman to identify his name with the championship of a great principal of right and justice. And finally he falls heir to the dislike of Blaine, the disappropriation of Garfield and the blind fury of Jay Gould's ruins of the newspaper founded by Horace Greely.

Vegetine

FOR

CHILLS, SHAKES,

FEVER AND AGUE.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

DR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, has done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain, all of the time; the pain was so great he did nothing but cry. The doctors did no help him a particle, he could not lift his foot from the floor, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the "Louisville Courier-Journal," that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken fifteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health, walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to chills. Whenever he feels one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine and that is the last of the Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like the most of the medicines recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world.

Respectfully, MRS. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

Vegetine

DYSPEPSIA, NEURALGIA, AND

GENERAL DEBILITY.

BERNARDSTON, MASS., 1878.

We, the undersigned, having used Vegetine, take pleasure in recommending it to all those troubled with humors of any kind, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, or General Debility, it being the Great Blood Purifier. Sold by R. I. Crowell & Sons, who sell more of it than all other patent medicines put together.

MRS. L. F. PERKINS,
MRS. H. W. SCOTT,
JOSEPHUS SLATE.

Vegetine is the great health restorer—composed exclusively of barks, roots, and herbs. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it.

VEGETINE

Druggists' Testimony.

Mr. H. R. Stevens:—

Dear Sir,—We have been selling your remedy, the Vegetine for about three years, and take pleasure in recommending it to our customers, as in no instance where a blood purifier would reach the case, has it ever failed to effect a cure, to our knowledge. It certainly is the ne plus ultra of renovators.

Respectfully,

Sanford's Series comprises four books, and is based upon the analytic system:

Sanford's Common School Analytical Arithmetic, 355 pp. Half roan, 90 cents.

Sanford's Higher Analytical Arithmetic, 416 pp. Half roan. Cloth sides, $1.25.

The definitions are clear, and the analyses exhaustive. The work is practical, and abounds in slate exercises. The experience of a large number of the best teachers in this country is that, with Sanford in hand, pupils discover an unwonted enthusiasm in studying the science of numbers.

Bishop D. S. [illegible], (Southern Meth.)

It is an excellent corrective of Indigestion. I have used it with prompt beneficial results.

Rev. Dr. Mangum, Prof. Univ. of N. C.

I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket Cure.

Rev. Drs. Jeter, Broadus, Dickinson, (Bapt.)

It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of many of us in the fullness and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as this specific. The word of any one of the eminent men who unite to write this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their unanimous witness joined with the experimental proof of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a powerful therapeutical agent.—Baptist Herald, Va.

Captain Randolph Macon College, Va.

Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by R. Crumbs, Collics, Headaches and all sorts of evils from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, L. L. D. Ham. Sid. Col., Va.

It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and Flatulent Colic, sedative, sop rific, tonic, slightly aperient, without nausea.

Rev. B. F. Woodward, P. E., Na. Conf.

About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Failing with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with no hurt. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and many local comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va.

I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to others sufferers with happy results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For protection from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va.

It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all these complaints and troubles from indigestion. I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate.

This remedy is of true virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an antidote to our "Nation Disease." The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

DAILY NEWS.
WEDNESDAY, - MARCH 19, 1879.

A Broken String.

Sing and to you! No—no—with one note jarred
The harmony of life's long chord is broken,
Your words were light and by light lips were spoken,
And yet the music that you loved is marred.

One string, my friend, is dumb beneath your hand,
Strike and it throbs and vibrates at your will,
Falters upon the verge of sound, and still
Falls back as sea waves shattered on the strand.

Touch it no more, for you shall not regain
The sweet lost tune. Take what is left, or let Life's music sleep to death. Let us forget
The perfect melody we seek in vain.

And yet perchance, some day before we die,
As half in dreams we hear the high wind sweep
Around our windows, when we fain would sleep,
Laden with one long sobbing moaning cry.

One faint, far tone will waken, and will rise
Above the great wave voice of mortal pain;
Hand will touch hand and lips touch lips again,
As in the darkness it reecedes and dies;

Or lingering in the summer evening glow,
Then when the passion of the crimson west
Burning like some great heart that cannot rest,
Stains as with blood the waters as they flow.

Some old forgotten tones may rise and wake
Our dying youth, and set our hearts aflame
With their old sweetness—to our lips the name
Of love steal softly for the old love's sake.

—Corahill Magazine.

The Popular Preacher.

North American.

It was a worthy pastor,
Who saw with grief and care,
His congregation go to sleep,
Or—which was worse—elsewhere.

He pondered long and deeply,
This wise and pious man,
And at last hit on a simple
And most effectual plan.

Next Sunday, of his sermon
The text when he had said,
He slipped adown the pulpit stairs
And stood upon his head.

By thousands flocked the people
That pr acher great to hear,
And the trustees raised his salary
To fifty thousand a year.

Doctor, mother sent me to the shot-teary pap quicker'n blazes cause bub's sick with the nicken chox, and she wants a thimble full of pollegalic in this dio tinper 'cause we had'nt bot a gottle and the kitt pup's got the bine witters in it.

Guess.

Troy Times

With regard to the popular misuse of the word 'guess" in this country, Webster says: It is a gross vulgarism to use the word 'guess,'' not in its true and specific sense, but simply for "think" or "believe," as I guess the mail has arrived; I guess he is at home." The word guess, which is regarded as almost a Yankee shibboleth, is used exactly in that sense by Wycliffe, by Chaucer, by Bishop Jewell in an old North of England or Lowland Scotch ballad, in the "Mirror for Magistrates" (1589), by Bishop Hall (1599), by John Locke twice, and by one of the personages in Anthony Trollope's "Orley Farm," and Stillingfleet says: One may guess from Plato's writings * * * that himself had a right opinion concerning the true God. Shakespeare says: You cannot guess who caused your father's death.

"No man is blest by accident or guess,"—Young.

Doubtless many other examples from standard English authors might be produced. These, are however, quite enough to show this so-called Americanism is not American in any proper sense of the word. The word in Dutch is gissen, in Hebrew kasam, in Arabic kiyas, in Irish geasiam, in Sweedish gissa, in Hindostan gyas.

A Perfect Flying Machine at Last.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

We were yesterday permitted to inspect the working model of a machine which, we think, successfully solves the problem of aerial navigation. We are not permitted to describe the machine, as the inventor has not yet patented it, but we can say that we saw it in operation, and, though it weighs but eight pounds, it raised a weight of twenty-one pounds three ounces, and kept it in the air for nearly half an hour and propelled it against the wind as fast as a man could run. Unlike the generality of aerial machines, this one does not depend upon any balloon or gas-bag for its buoyant power, and its propulsive machinery is operated by a motor that is extremely light, reliable and powerful.

How Fast Can a Hound Run?

This interrogation is frequently heard, and always with varying answer. A practical demonstration of the speed of this species of quadruped recently came to our notice, and being well authenticated by several gentlemen who were on the train we give it as an illustration:

J. A. Ford, of this city, owns a heavily built mastiff hound. Business one day called him to Ceresco, a small village eight miles distant, and the dog accompanied him. On his return he got aboard the train and did not discover the absence of his dog until the train began moving, when he stepped to the back platform of the car, and there saw that the hound had just started. The dog overtook the train, but as the speed of the cars was constantly quickening, its endeavors to jump on board were fruitless. Then the train began to whiz faster and the dog quickened his pace, and until within a mile or two of this city kept up with the cars, which were going at the rate of eighteen miles an hour. He arrived a few minutes after the cars, his feet sore and bleeding from contact with the splinters on the ties having made the distance of eight miles in a half an hour.—Letter to Chicago Inter-Ocean.

MEDICINES.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S L[illegible]

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING Bros. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons) passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MERRELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

Grave mistakes are made in the treatment of all diseases that arise from poison in the blood. Not one case of Scrofula, Syphilis, White Swelling, Ulcerous Sores and Skin Disease, in a thousand, is treated without the use of Mercury in some form. Mercury rots the bones, and the diseases it produces are worse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be. Dr. PEMBERTON'S STILLINGIA AND QUEEN'S DELIGHT is the only medicine upon which a hope of recovery is based. Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—SENATE.—The Vice President called the Senate to order at noon. The President's proclamation convening Congress was read. The members elect were then sworn in. The Iron clad oath was administered to those who were not, and the modified oath to those who were engaged in the rebellion.

On motion of Wallace, the credentials of Bell, of New Hampshire, was laid over till to-morrow.

On motion of Bayard, a committee of 2 was ordered to be appointed to join such a committee as may be appointed by the House to wait on the President and inform him Congress was prepared to receive any communication he may be pleased to make. Bayard and Anthony were appointed such a committee and the Senate at half past twelve took a recess till one o'clock.

On the reassembling of the Senate Whyte said, from the information received, the House would not organize before 3 or half past 3 o'clock. He therefore moved that the Senate adjourn which was carried.

HOUSE.—At noon the House was called to order by Adams the Clerk, who read the proclamation of the President, convening Congress and stated that the time designated having arrived, he would call the roll; which as the clerk of the last House, he was required by law to prepare. He thereupon proceeded to call the roll by States, beginning with Maine.

The State of Florida having been reached, the clerk called the name of Hull as a Representative from the Second District and explained why he had put on the roll the name of Hull rather than that of Bisbee. He said he received certificates of the election of Hull duly signed by the governor under the seal of the State, and subsequently received sundry papers in behalf of the election of Bisbee, among which was a certified copy of the canvass, subsequently made by the board of State canvassers in obedience to the order of the Supreme Court of that State. While that subsequent canvass would show the election of Bisbee. The clerk did not feel at liberty in regard to anything as credential, within the meaning of law except the certificate of the Governor.

The State of Iowa being reached, the clerk explained why he placed on the roll the names of 9 members whose names appeared there. They had presented certificates duly signed by the Governor, and the question whether the election had or had not been held on the day fixed by law was one which the clerk did not feel called upon to decide, but which the House itself, when organized, could decide.

The call of the roll showed a presence of 285 members (Oresley and James of New York,) being absent, Randal, of Penn.; Garfield, of Ohio, and Wright, of Pennsylvania were then put in for speaker. The first vote resulted: Randall, 141; Garfield, 125; Wright, 13; for Wm. D. Kelly, of Pa. 1. Necessary to elect 142; So Randall having received a majority was declared duly elected Speaker.

On motion of Wood, of New York, the House proceeded to election of speaker. When Blackburn was called he voted for Randall, there was a round of applause on the Democratic side and in the galleries. The vote resulted as follows: Whole number of votes cast, 289; for Randall, 144; for Garfield 125; for Wright 13; for Wm. D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, 1. The members voting for Wright were De La Matyre, of Indiana. Ford, of Missouri, Forsythe, of Ill., Gillett, of Iowa, Jones, of Texas Kelley, of Penn., Ladd, of Maine, Lowe, of Mass., Stevenson, of Ill., Weaver, of Iowa, and Yorkum, of Pa. The member voting for Kelly was Barlow, of Vermont. When the tellers announced the result there were but 142 votes for Randall, and Conger, of Michigan, had just raised a question that there was less than a majority of the whole number of members elect, when Oreilley, of New York, one of the two absentees, arrived in the Chamber, announced his presence and cast his vote for Randall thus giving that gentleman a majority of the whole number of members elect. The incident was an occasion of much applause. Messrs. Garfield and Blackburn, (having been appointed for the purpose,) then conducted the Speaker to the Chair. The Speaker on taking the Chair made a brief speech expressing his thanks for the confidence and approval shown him and saying: "Observing strict impartiality as to men, measures, parties and sections; it will be to me unspeakable joy if I can help to bring about that substantial fraternal union which comes alone, through wisdom, moderation and justices." The oath of office was then administered to the Speaker by Kelly, of Pensylvania. The oldest member in the continuous length of the service after which the oath to members was administered by the Speaker in groups of States. When the members from Del, Md. Va. N. C. and S. C. were called in one group and when the Speaker said would first administer the oath to those who could take it in the usual form (that is what is known as the iron clad oath,) there were only five members who stepped forward and took it. Among the most conspicuous of those who took the modified oath was General Joseph E. Johnston, of Virginia. Frye, of Maine, objected to administering the oath to Hull, of Florida, and that gentleman was requested to stand aside at present. Subsequently, Harris, of Virginia, offered a resolution that Hill be sworn in. Frye moved as a substitute for resolution reciting that the credentials of Hull had been annulled and made void by a judgment of the Superior Court of Florida, and that the State board of canvassers had declared and certified that Bisbee had been duly elected and that therefore Bisbee is entitled to be sworn in on his prima facia case. The matter was allowed to go over till to-morrow, and the papers were ordered to be printed in the record. Other officers as nominated by the Democratic caucus last night were then elected. General resolutions referring to the committee on resolutions were then presented and ordered to be printed for action to-morrow. Drawing for seats took place and the House adjourned.

A petition against the right of Butterworth, of Ohio, to a seat in the House was presented but went over until to morrow.

Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Democratic Senators held a caucus this afternoon at which the report of the committee appointed to arrange the Democratic personnel of the Senate Committees was received and ratified. The majority of memberships of the principal committees is as follows: Finance, Bayard, Chairman, Wallace, Kenan, Voorhees and Beck. Appropriations, Davis, of West Va. Chairman, Withers, Beck, Wallace and Eaton; Foreign Relations, Eaton, Chairman, Johnson, Morgan. Hill and Pendleton, Commerce, Gordon, Chairman, Ransom, Randolph, Hereford and Coke; Judiciary, Thurman, Chairman, McDonald, Bayard, Garland, Lamar and Davis of Illinois. Senator Davis of Illinois is also provided for by the majority of the same as if he were in full party fellowship with them by placing him on the following additional committees viz: Revision of Laws, Private Land Claims and Census. Other chairmanships are distributed as follows: Privileges and Elections, Senator Saulsbury; Military Affairs, Randolph; Naval Affairs, McPherson; Post Offices and Post Roads, Maxey; Public Lands, McDonald; Indian Affairs, Coke; Pensions, Withers; Claims, Cockrell; Manufacturies, Grover; Agrienlture, Johnston; District of Columbia, Harris; Patents, Kernan; Territories, Garland; Railroads, Ransom; Mines and Mining, Hereford; Revision of the Laws, Wallace, Education and Labor, Bailey; Civil Service and Retrenchment, Butler; Printing, Whyte; Select Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard, Senator Beck; To examine the several branches of the Civil Service, Senator Vest; To take into consideration the state of the law concerning the electoral vote for president, etc., Morgan; To investigate the Treasury Department accounts, Davis, of West Virginia; On the Census, Pendleton; On Epidemic Diseases, Harris; On Mississippi River, Lamar; (Note—This replaces the Select Committee on the Levees of the Mississippi River.)

The Select Committee to inquire into alleged frauds in the late election commonly known as the "Teller Committee" is reorganized with Wallace as chairman and Messrs. Bailey, Garland, McDonald and Kernan as the other Democratic members. The select committees on removal of the Northern Cheyennes to the Indian Territory and to inquire into all claims of United States citizens against Nicaragua are to be continued with the same. The membership as at present respective to chairman being Kirkwood and Hamlin.

A Man-of-War Needed.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Cabinet met this afternoon. Sherman and Evarts submitted the information concerning the threatening condition of affairs in Alaska. It was decided that a U. S. Man-of-war should be dispatched to Sitka as early as possible. The "Alaska" 11 guns now at San Francisco has been selected. Orders were sent here yesterday afternoon to take aboard stores, and her commander will be instructed not only to afford the immediate protection to the white residents at Sitka, but also to investigate the condition of affairs in Alaska and report what is necessary to secure a permanent peace. The Alaska is a screw Steamer and carries 12 guns.

The Celebrated Seven Spring Iron and Alum Mass

This is decidedly the most useful, besides being the most effilent Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache it may be truly said, to have no equal. Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases.

Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetis;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. Send worth of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.

Unheard of Bargains!

AT THE INDEFATIGABLE ENDEAVORS TO PLEASE THE PUBLIC. SO HERE GOES.

Ye muses nine, inspire my pen,
To sing of Fayetteville streeet, No 10,
who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,
will make your rooms and parlor shine.
Perforated mottoes, and white holly baskets.
And every other sort of stuff,
Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids your all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too.

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

A Remedy that has been Remedied.

The invincible repugnance felt by almost every one to the smell and flavor of Cod Liver Oil, has prevented tens of thousands of the victims of debility from reaping the benefits of its peculiar healing and nutritive properties. The almost hopeless consumptive, the martyr to Rheumatism, the barely living shadow of men, women and children that emerge from the clutches of malarial fevers, all of these know, or at least their doctors know, that of all discovered remedies, this Oil is the best, and often the only one that will build up their wasted bodies, and and restore their shattered nerves, and far more effective than the Oil by itself is Scott's Emulsion of it, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This is the finest and most natural food and medicine in the world, and wholly deprived of its disagreeable qualities. Sold by Wm, Simpson, Druggist. March 4-d&w3w

FROM A PROMINENT VETERINARY SURGEON.

Mr. Wm M. GILES, Chemist, Sir: I have practiced extensively in Europe and America, and your new discovery, Liniment Iodide of Ammonia, surpasses anything I ever used for splints, strains, lameness in the limbs or shoulders, weakness across the kidneys, wind galls, and hard, bony swellings on the joints. It is truly marvelous.

Yours very truly,
